Part 10 - 'Fox'

By Anita Gibney

It's November. The trees are nearly bare, and we are all beginning to turn our thoughts towards Christmas and the holidays.

I had decided on the theme for every square at the beginning of the year apart from this one. I changed my mind a few times over the course of the year. I decided on the fox because I thought it fitted well with the natural theme of the whole blanket and they are very active in my garden at this time of year as food becomes harder to find.

I've completely used up all of my rust and orange scraps now and had to break into a ball of Stylecraft Highland Heathers to finish Mr Fox.

Just two squares left to go now on our journey through the year. I'm looking forward to joining them and planning a border.

Until December!
